NEWS ALERT

Dr. Julie Goodman to Discuss Interpretation of Studies of Bisphenol A and Health at Upcoming American Enterprise Institute Conference

In response to recent press coverage and regulatory actions surrounding the chemical bisphenol A, more commonly known as BPA, the American Enterprise Institute is convening a conference entitled, The Science and Policy of BPA. Gradient's Dr. Julie Goodman will join a panel of leading experts to discuss the benefits, health effects research, and regulatory actions relating to BPA. Dr. Goodman, who has extensively researched the scientific literature relating to BPA toxicity and has herself authored several peer-reviewed articles on BPA, will provide a critical discussion of the scientific research assessing whether BPA is likely to cause human health risks.

American Enterprise Institute Conference: The Science and Policy of BPA
Date: June 9, 2010
